Police Open House

Sixty citizens came to watch May 16 as Greenbelt Police Chief, William T. Lane, held a dress roll call and inspection of his men and then awarded for the first time citations to 5 officers.

Peace Officers' Memorial Day and Police Week in Greenbelt. Councilman Francis White welcomed citizens present, told of the police department's growth and said we are "proud of our staff as it exists today." City Manager Jim Giese introduced Greenbelt Homes, Inc. president, Charles Schwan, who presented a plaque: "In grateful appreciation for services performed over many years for the members of Greenbelt Homes, Inc. May 16 1969."

Corp. Paul Reamy was given a special citation for an incident in 1966 in which he sustained an injury while apprehending a suspect. The 1967 award went to Thomas Van Valkenburgh, Pfc., who intercepted a suspect and thus prevented an attempt at bank robbery. Three men were cited during 1968; Cpl. Carl Goodwin and Pfc. Alvin Hall apprehended three suspicious persons, later arrested, in response to a bank robbery alert and Pvt. Ernest Brumley, for giving life-saving aid to a man having a severe heart attack.

During the evening the police dept. held open house in the city council room and displayed much of their equipment and information in some 20 exhibits developed by the police officers on their own time.

A chart just inside the door showed the mandatory training program each recruit must pass through; three weeks basic training in the dept.; a state approved training academy — 245 hours; on the job field training with experienced officer — 2-3 weeks; daily roll-call training and then one of the many specialized police schools. Chief Lane said he was especially proud of what this display means to the professional quality of his department. Five of his men are currently enrolled at American University studying police administration on their own time and expense.

A crime map showed geographical incidence of answered calls — most calls occurred in apartment areas, both new and old, the least number of calls occurred in the single-family dwelling areas Boxwood, Lakeside and Lakewood. Other displays showed items of physical evidence from real cases now kept on file: a footprint, clothing fibres, used cigarettes; riot equipment including a trunk full of tear gas shells (kept tightly closed because of a slow leak); badges and insignia worn in the past by Greenbelt police including the current patch designed by Chief Lane showing the lake with pine trees at its edge in shades of light blue, green and white. The new citation ribbon is a plain green and white bar 2 inches long and 3/4 inch high.

MEMORIAL DAY SERVICE

On Friday, May 30, at 10 a.m. the American Legion Post 136 will hold a community memorial service in the Greenbelt Center at 10 a.m. to honor the men who gave their lives in the service of our country.

Recreation Fund Requests Exceed Budgeted Amount

A number of recommendations for the recreation budget were received by the city council in a series of meetings last week with recreation groups and representatives of the city's Park and Recreation Advisory Board.

Organizations seeking city contributions to help fund their activities asked for a total of $4,120, broken down as follows: Greenbelt Band, $700; Little League, $800; Aquatic Booster Club, $620; Springhill Lake baseball league $250, and Boys Club, $1,750. The city had budgeted $3,750.

Hugh Jascourt speaking unofficially for PRAB, made a strong pitch for a parks crew separate from public works and associated with the recreation department. He relayed the requests of Lake-side Citizens association for a 4-man crew exclusively provided for permanent park maintenance. It was thought that this would assure priority for lake maintenance.

City manager James Giese said that the new budget calls for an increase in the parks crew from 3 to 5 persons, plus summer help. He said that actually during the height of the season some of the public works crew is diverted to help the parks crew, not the other way around, so that he couldn't see the advantage of a separate parks crew.

If the concern is for more lake maintenance help, Giese said, then the council would have to authorize additional funds. He noted that about half the city's parks are not around the lake.

Giese also held out hope that the parks crew could spend more time on lake maintenance this year. He observed that last year much of the parks crew time was spent on such one-time projects as preparation for tennis court reconstruction, softball field repairs, and tree-planting.

Jascourt also relayed to council capital outlay requests for lighting of basketball and tennis courts, 4 additional playgrounds — three at Boxwood, a paved pathway around the lake, toilet facilities at the lake, and additional lighting at the Youth Center. Giese said that some of these items were in the budget and others could be financed through the bond issue.

Council did react favorably to a request for the addition of jogging as an activity with a sponsored program leader; $200 was temporarily allocated for this purpose.

A preliminary review of PRAB's recommendations for establishment of drop-ins for teenagers at Springhill Lake and "core" Greenbelt produced discouraging results. The difficulty of locating facilities for such a purpose was the main obstacle.

Local Gas Station Zoning Denied

The County Commissioners on May 14 denied the zoning application for construction of a gasoline station on Glenn Dale Road on the basis of "prematurity." They indicated that there were no firm plans for the rest of the tract (Schrom property), which is presently zoned C-2, General Commercial.

The special exception had been filed by the Frankford Drive Construction Company, which sought a gas station on the south side of Glenn Dale Rd. about 540 feet west of the Baltimore access ramp to the Baltimore-Washington Parkway. The co-owner, Donald Gengery at the April hearing had indicated that the announcement revealing plans for the entire commercial development of the area would be forthcoming in the near future.

The city of Greenbelt had opposed the special exception on the grounds that before approval is granted, plans for the entire area should be approved so that the land would not be developed in piecemeal fashion.

Schwan Again Heads GHI Board; Other Officers Also Returned

by Al Skolnik

With no opposition candidates nominated, the present officers of Greenbelt Homes, Inc., were easily reelected at the first post-election meeting of the newly-constituted board of directors last Thursday night. Named president was Charles F. Schwan, who has served in that capacity since January 1, 1964. Other officers elected were Nat Shinderman, vice-president; Steve Polaschik, secretary; and John O'Reilly, treasurer.

The tension from the previous week's annual election carried over to the balloting as newly-elected board member Alex Chavrid abstained from voting for some of the officers and newcomer David Lange cast a negative vote against Schwan. There was also some by-play as to whether a secret ballot should be used in the voting and it was finally decided by a 4-3 vote (Chavrid, Lange, and Douglas Hawes in the minority) to have an open vote.

The tension remained during the opening stages of the meeting as incumbents and newcomers proceeded to lecture each other on their respective deficiencies. But as the 5 1/2 hour meeting wore on, and the board waded through a number of complex agenda items, which engendered few policy differences, the tension relaxed until finally at 12:30 a.m. the following incident brought hearty laughs from the entire board:

Incident

Manager Roy Breashears brought a member's request before the board, and Schwan, looking desperately at the clock and hoping to refer the matter back to the manager for a decision, asked Breashears, "Is the member's letter addressed to the board?" Unabashedly, Breashears replied, "No. It is addressed to 'Gentlemen'."

With that unintentioned admonition, the board ended its deliberations at 1:10 a.m. on a relatively friendly note. A source of contention earlier in the evening — the operation and staffing of committees — was satisfactorily resolved by the establishment of a new Committee on Committees to review the committee structure and to bring in recommendations with respect to their staffing, organization, and functions. Appointed to the Committee were Shinderman, chairman, Chavrid, and Lange from the board, Tom White from the Audit Committee, and four non-board members.

The new committee will also look into a proposal of O'Reilly's for the formation of an information committee, composed primarily of non-board members whose task would be to improve the flow of information from the board to the membership. The general idea won approval, but directors Jim Smith and Shinderman cautioned that the board could not relinquish its responsibility in this area. O'Reilly said his purpose was to avoid future complaints that the membership was not being kept informed, and hence was not being stimulated to participate in GHI activities.

Lange said that the board had to be more aggressive in stimulating membership interest and urged establishment of new committees or activities that would meet special needs. As a starter, he suggested orientation meetings for new members so as to acquaint them with GHI duties and benefits, a voter registration drive for city elections, a committee to study recreation needs, a committee to control dogs, and encouragement of self-help activities.

O'Reilly replied that there were plenty of committees which were begging for non-board members to join. Schwan added that there is a long-standing invitation for non-board members to join committees (except for a few, such as personnel that are considered to be more appropriately limited to board members). He took umbrage at the charge that the committees were deliberately dominated by board members.

All parties agreed that the News Letter under the leadership of director Katherine Keene was doing a fine job and were pleased to note its timely appearance. Chavrid noted that during the campaign he heard many complaints which he later learned were based on misinformation, but for which he didn't have the answer at the time. He suggested that because of the large turnover in GHI homes, it would be a good idea for the News Letter to repeat at more frequent intervals certain basic information about the corporation. He referred particularly to information on the allocation of costs between frame and brick homes.

While the Committee on Committees sets about its task, the present committee structure will continue to function. Named to chair the member complaints committee was Steve Polaschik. Darwin Beck was named to head the

Swimming Pool Staff Named; Opening May 30

The 1969 municipal pool season will see the return of many former staff members. Walt Bockmiller will act as the Administrative Manager to supervise overall direction revenues and concession operation. The Assistant Manager will again be Bob "Saddlebags" Klem. Tom "Flash" Hooven will fill the position of Head Lifeguard. Returning lifeguards include Buddy Marquadt, Kixie Aulision, and Larry Noel. Also returning will be cashiers Mary and Anne Barcus.

New staff includes lifeguards Mike Lundregan formerly with Camp Pine Tree, Jeff Cassels, and Joe Smith. Dave Lehman will operate the concession stand with Frank Moraff and Linda Hosick working in the basketroom.

As usual, the swim season will open on Memorial Day. Only a few minor repairs to the pool remain to be completed before that date. The interior surface of the pool has already received its annual waterproof coat, a broken tile has been replaced, and the pool is being filled.

Such maintenance items as replacing a broken window and repairing leaks in the bath house roof and refurbishing the concession stand remain to be done.

A flyer is now circulating concerning pool rates for the season. As in the two previous years, fourth grade classes at Center School will receive swimming instruction in their physical education program, using the municipal pool.

500 Attend SHL Gala Salute to Veterans

The all-day "Star-Spangled Salute to Veterans" gala last Saturday prompted Robert B. Robinson, Director of Community Realty Company, to comment, "This is Springhill Lake's version of the sit-in demonstration!" This remark was made following the performance of the exuberant and talented "Bowie Sing-Out" group of 45 teenagers, who captured the hearts of all those present.

During the day an estimated 500 persons camped out on the green adjacent to the SHL Community Center, where programs were continually in progress. Highlights included demonstrations by majorette groups, canine corps, and fencers, a Magic Show, Beer Bash, and a rousing performance by the Army Band.

Personages in the political arena mounted the stage with messages of tribute. They included: Councilmen Leo Gerton, Richard Pilski, and Francis White, Maryland State Comptroller Louis Goldstein, State Senator Edward Conroy, Delegates Pauline Menes and Arthur Dorman and County Commissioner Francis Francois.

Responsible for the program were Mrs. Martha Sutton, SHL Social Director, her assistant Mrs. Billie Pilson and staff.

Council Zips Through Agenda Of City Charter Amendments

by Marti Silverstein

A "holiday mood" prevailed at a short action-filled City Council meeting, Monday, May 19. A lengthy agenda was completed in near-record time as resolution after resolution was passed and appointments made and approved. There was little discussion on any issue as all votes were unanimous by Mayor Edgar Smith and Councilmen Gerton, Pilski and White. Councilman Hoff arriving late, did so only moments before adjournment.

The resolutions involved a series of amendments to the city charter. These changes will go into effect unless petitioned to a referendum, and will be incorporated in the codification of the city charter and ordinances now being undertaken by Michie Publishing Co.

Many of the changes were of a technical nature designed to clarify existing procedures. Changes of a more substantive nature included:

(1) a revised section on budget preparation whereby the city manager must submit the budget to council by its first meeting in April rather than the present May date. The budget adoption date stays the same of June 10.

(2) authorization for the city to invest in short term interest bearing notes of the United States or the State of Maryland.

(3) modification of city purchasing requirements to except from bidding the purchase of professional services and to permit the council to negotiate a specific purchase. Also authorized was the joint taking of bids and award of purchases with other jurisdictions.

(4) making the due date for tax anticipation notes 30 day after such taxes become delinquent instead of become collectible.

Other Business

Appointed to the Park and Recreation Advisory Board were Jerry Shafer, 412 Ridge and George Jones 113 Northway. It was felt that Shafer's experience with the Boys' Club and Jones' with the Swim Team made them valuable additions to the Board. Council also appointed George Mathews, 107 Lynbrook, currently president of the Boxwood Citizens' Association, to the Advisory Planning Board.

John Bogumill, president of the Lakeside Citizens' Association presented to Council the results of a poll taken April 18 and May 8 of Association members. Results showed that 29 of 35 members voting approved restriction of parking to one side of Lakeside Drive Extended only. It was decided to take this matter under advisement and consider it further at a later date.

Refusal of Springhill Lake managers to grant permission for Boys' Club members to sell license

Select Committee, which also underwent a change in name to Planning Committee. A committee investigating the environmental effects of nuclear power plants on the Chesapeake was also named.

Townhouses Still Available

In more substantive matters, the board voted to send out one more announcement to members that there are still 6 or 7 vacancies among the 25 townhouses now being constructed opposite the North End School. A cut-off date of 30 days was set, after which the board will consider alternative ways of disposing of any vacant homes. The first homes are expected to be ready for occupancy by August. The board also made clear that parsonages now located in GHI homes would be considered eligible as members for the new townhouses.

The board voted to authorize loans to members for the purchase of appliances (stoves and refrigerators) now available at discount prices through a national firm specializing in cooperatives. Loans would be for one year at 4 1/2 percent installment rate interest (8.2 percent simple interest). Any labor or services provided by the corporation in delivering the items would be charged the purchaser.

A request for waiver of a $10 charge for changing the color of the paint trim because only one coat of paint would be involved was turned down by the board. The $10 fee, the board said, was an average charge to cover all types of situations, including those where one coat was involved and those where more than one coat were involved.

Oil contracts were granted to BF Oil Corporation (formerly Sinclair) for #2 oil and to Humble Oil Company for #6 oil. The board expressed concern that it was becoming difficult to get other oil companies to submit competitive bids.

The board will meet only once a month — the 2nd Thursday — during the summer months of June, July, and August.

Tunnel Redecorated

To the Editor:

The Center Hill tunnel is being painted by (I guess) the Center School children. What a wonderful idea! Instead of the obscenities that reigned since Halloween we have an enormous mouse on the ceiling (my favorite), the sun, earth, and moon, various school activities, and lions on either side of the entrance. I hope this catches on and that every tunnel in Greenbelt (and everywhere) will be so graced.

Fire Prevention Tip For May

Have Fun Outdoors . . . But Watch Those Sparks

Forestry is the art of using the forest continuously to meet the needs of man. A country can have no greater wealth than its forests.

In the United States, forestry has to do principally with the supply of wood for various purposes, with the maintenance of water-flow in streams, with the prevention of floods, and with the supply of forage for grazing animals within the forest.

The great danger to forests is from forest fires. There are many ways in which a forest fire may start. Lighting may strike a tree, and a whole forest may soon be burning. Most forest fires are caused by the carelessness of human beings. They build fires when camping and do not make sure they are completely out. They light their cigarettes and toss the matches aside without making sure they are out. Each year 170 thousand forest fires destroy 24 million wooded acres.

The only way to prevent this damage is to stop the fire before it becomes too big or not to let it start at all. REMEMBER—ONLY YOU CAN STOP A FOREST FIRE!

Let us share the beauty of our forest woodlands. Be careful—don't let an accident ruin your visit. Forest and park areas belong to the people. Help us to KEEP MARYLAND CLEAN, GREEN, AND BEAUTIFUL.
